ABOUT

Graham Hill is a songwriter and drummer based in New Orleans. Taking In Stars is ten songs he wrote and produced with Donald "Donny" Markowitz at Mid City Sound Studio between March and September 2026: an unhurried, sunlit record with a steady pull toward hope. Hill was the drummer for Beach House from 2008 to 2016, playing on Teen Dream and Depression Cherry, and has recorded with Papercuts, The Parish and his own project Roman Ruins. His father, Steve Hill, was the longtime house bassist for NPR's Mountain Stage and a founding member of the Putnam County Pickers; the vintage photograph of the two of them is the album's cover.

SYNC LICENSING

Ten songs with big, plain-spoken choruses and a wide emotional range: hope after a hard stretch, letting go, missing someone, first love, a mind that won't switch off at night. Featured vocals from Tif Lamson and phin. Tempo, key and mood tags follow with the final mixes; instrumentals and stems on request. Master and publishing clearance, quotes and screeners: contact details to follow.
